

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 21, 1866.

A few days since Mr. Edwin H. King, assessor, took up the body of the late Wm. B. Talley, buried in the old Foundry burial-ground in Washington and reinterred it in the Congressional Cemetery. The body had been interred in low ground, and the grave was half full of water. Notwithstanding it has been sixteen years since the interment was made, the pine case and mahogany coffin were found in a perfect state of preservation. The body and shroud were also found to be in a perfect state of preservation. On further examination the body was found to have almost the hardness and consistency of stone, showing that petrification was rapidly going on.

The "auxiliary committee of American Association in favor of the Freedmen," composed of citizens of several of the cantons of Switzerland, have sent on an address to the President and Congress of the United States, asking for "equality" to be conferred on the Freedmen, and for extending to them the right of suffrage.

The National Intelligencer says:—The great agricultural interest of the West and elsewhere will be fast in the jaws of the Eastern vice, until the representatives of the West are reinforced in Congress by representatives from the agricultural South. Many of the Western members are now thinking of this very thing.

The superintendents of all the Southern railroads will meet in Washington on the 30th instant, for the purpose of agreeing upon rates of tariff, time tables, and the general management of their roads.

Mr. Robert Dale Owen has published his plan of "reconstruction," looking to a prospective equality of suffrage, with a novitiate of ten years for the colored man.

MERCHANTS' & MECHANICS' EXCHANGE,
NORFOLK, VA., May 17, 1866.
Editors Baltimore Gazette:

Gentlemen—My attention has been called to a article in your paper of yesterday, holding me up in no enviable light, as one of the accusers of ex-President Jefferson Davis. To our own community to explanation is necessary, my antecedents and present position are well known. But I have friends and family connections in your city who are doubtless surprised and mortified to see my name in the list of witnesses before the Grand Jury.

I deem it a duty to enter and myself to inform you that I entered the Confederate army as a volunteer, resigning for that purpose a highly respectable position in our city government, that of Register (by virtue of which office I was exempt from military service by act of Legislature), raised a company, contributed of my means to its equipment, and served as Captain of artillery until the surrender of General Lee's army.

I was summoned before the Grand Jury as were many other gentlemen, greatly against my inclination, and so far from volunteering my evidence, reluctantly obeyed a peremptory order.

If Mr. Davis be guilty of treason, I certainly am to a greater degree; as he, in his position, only obeyed the unanimous voice of our whole Confederacy, whilst I volunteered my services to a cause which I considered just and holy.

Your obedient servant,
J. HENRY HENDREN,
Secretary Merchants' & Mechanics' Exchange,
Norfolk, late Captain Company B, 18th Virginia battalion of artillery.

Papers throughout the country will greatly oblige me by copying the above.

LOYALTY AND DISLOYALTY.—What is Southern loyalty? If it consists in a veneration for the Constitution, a desire for the restoration of the Union—the most sincere intention to obey the laws, and the most earnest wish to cultivate friendly relations with those of our Northern brethren who believe that the war is over—then these feelings and determinations constitute loyalty, we are loyal.

But if loyalty be favor, despotism, to desire the subversion of the powers of this government to the oppression of one class of its people; if it were to relinquish ungrudgingly every right which can make life desirable, or to cross the hand that would deprive us of our manhood; if it be to believe that Thaddeus Stevens is Allah, and that Beecher, Howard, Zulim, Underwood, Botts, Quigley, Stanton, and Butler are his prophets; if it be to acquiesce by word or sign in the doctrine that Virginia and her people are to hang supplicant on the tender mercies of any set of political tricksters, or to give consent, even by silence, to our proud old Mother's being shorn of one iota of her territory or her rights, to join in the cry for Mr. Davis' blood, to agree to negro suffrage, to admit Gov. Pierpont, to approve of military commissions, to despise those who are living, to forget those who are dead, to ask for the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, or to favor a ratification of the Reconstruction Committee's report—we are not loyal and not likely to become so.—Norfolk Virginian.

THE RADICAL CONVENTION.—We see that Lynchburg has a representative in "the Union Convention" at Alexandria! Is it pertinent to inquire who sent him there? Where is his constituency? Who does he represent? By what right does he hail from Lynchburg? He is not a citizen of this place, and if we wanted representation in such a body as that convened at Alexandria we should select a different style of man. We protest against such delegations from Lynchburg and shall not only scan closely, but hold ourselves at liberty to comment with freedom upon the course of an individual who pretends to represent this people in a body with whose aims and purposes he has no sympathy. We should have no objection to a real Union Convention. We are for the Union as it was. We maintain the Constitution as it now is. We are all Union men and support the national policy of the President. But we are not in sympathy with those whose machinations all tend to disunion, and who would exclude from all the benefits of the Union ninety-nine hundredth of the people of Virginia.—Lynch.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the Times."

There was a large meeting of the citizens of Philadelphia, who are in favor of the President's restoration policy, at the Academy of Music on Saturday evening. The meeting was for the purpose of celebrating the organization of the "National Union Club" of that city. Addresses were delivered by Senators Doolittle and Cowan, who strongly advocated President Johnson's policy, and denounced the schemes of the radicals in Congress.

It is reported upon good authority, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, that the judiciary committee have come to the conclusion that the evidence produced before them does not warrant the charge that Jefferson Davis is guilty of complicity in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln.

Gen. Grant has just received a despatch from Gen. H. W. Halleck, in California, in which he says that there is not a word of truth in the report that Fort Goodwin had been captured by the Apaches and the garrison massacred. He denounces the report as altogether sensational.

Under the recent order of Assistant Quartermaster General Charles Thomas, the officers of the Quartermaster's Department have withdrawn the public funds in their hands from the national banks in Washington, and deposited the same in the Treasury.

On the 20th of June next ensuing, the eighteenth hundredth anniversary of St. Peter's death is to be commemorated at Rome. On that occasion all the Bishops in Christendom are said to be summoned to assemble at Rome, where a grand celebration is to take place.

From Washington we learn that Mexican news is exciting a great deal of attention just now both in and out of Congress. It is rumored there that a perfect understanding exists between Secretary Seward, Mr. Romero, and General Santa Anna. (?)

Newspaper accounts from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, South and Alabama, represent the growing crop of cotton as seriously injured by the cold weather, heavy rains and overflow of the cotton lands.

The trial of Jefferson Davis before the U. S. Circuit Court in Virginia is considered as settled, but Chief Justice Chase has not yet signified his intention to hold the court for this or any other purpose.

The sale of the Covington and Ohio Railroad to a New York company, although agreed upon, has not yet been consummated—as the parties purchasing ask for several months before signing the papers.

The Georgetown Courier, whose editor was present at the recent Orphan Asylum meeting in this place, has a handsome notice of the proceedings of the meeting, of Mr. Wise's speech, &c.

Bishop Lay, of Arkansas, was elected, on Friday last, by the Episcopal Convention in session at New Orleans, to the diocese made vacant by the death of Bishop Polk.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Charles Co., Md., was held in Port Tobacco, on the 10th May, to endorse the policy of President Johnson.

The civil rights bill, passed by Congress over the President's veto, has been declared unconstitutional by a judge of Louisiana.

The Radicals in Baltimore, had a large meeting last week, in opposition to the President's restoration policy.

The yellow fever is reported to prevail at Vera Cruz and the small-pox at Truxillo.

IMPORTANT GEOGRAPHICAL QUESTION.—It will be recollected that some short time before the war, the Legislature of Virginia passed an act authorizing the appointment of a commissioner to ascertain the boundary lines of Virginia, and make report thereon. Colonel Angus McDonald, a citizen of this State, and well known for his erudition, was chosen for the duty, and in company with his son as an assistant, he proceeded to London, where, with the most scrupulous regard for truth, and with great energy and patience, he commenced researches among the English archives, and in every quarter where there was chance of light being thrown on the object of his mission.

After thorough examination of all the means within his reach he returned to Virginia, bringing with him a most valuable and curious collection of books, maps and manuscripts, all of which he was authorized by the Legislature to use for the purposes of compilation. He had the various documents copied, and, together with the maps, bound in book form, but unfortunately, when the library of Virginia fell into the hands of the U. S. soldiers, some of the volumes and all the maps were made away with, and there remain now but four volumes. It is possible, however, that some of the originals remain in the hands of some member or members of the Colonel's family. A short time since, there was fortunately found a manuscript signed by Colonel McDonald, and dated March 17, 1862, and which may be styled the argument or summing up to be presented to the Legislature, and is the deductions at which he arrived. For reasons of State policy, this document was never published or acted on; for the war was then raging, and it contained conclusions relative to the boundary line between Maryland and Virginia, which, if published, would have been calculated to create some unpleasantness in the minds of Marylanders.

Now, however, it is not improper to publish what Colonel McDonald says in the argument above referred to, with regard to what may be termed the propriety of the Potomac. Here it is:—"The true boundary line, then, between Maryland and Virginia, as shown by the Maryland charter, and supported by history, is a line drawn from the point where the meridian of the fort of the north branch intersects with the southern parallel of north latitude to the northern bank of the Potomac, where that river is formed by the junction of the north and south branches, and, following that bank to Point Lookout, thence across the central point of the Scarborough line, and following the latter to the Atlantic ocean. In addition to the facts set forth in this report, which, in the opinion of your Commissioner, abundantly sustain Virginia's just right to the territory and boundaries he has claimed in her behalf, others, without limit in number, are adducible in support of said claims, with the recital of which your Commissioner, at this time, has not thought proper to swell this communication."

Colonel McDonald did not confine his investigations to this line alone; his report extends all round Virginia's borders.—Rich. Whig.

At the last Prince William County Circuit Court, four men named Smith, Cornwall, Jennings, and Johnson—were convicted of horse-stealing, and sentenced to the penitentiary—the first for ten years and the others for five years each.

LETTER FROM LOUDOUN COUNTY.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
LESSBURG, VA., May 16.—On Saturday last we had a warm day after the rain, "the clear shining after rain," which promised to make the grass and wheat and garden stuff to grow, but on Sunday we had rain here, followed by a blow and frost at night, and then frost again on Monday night. It continued cold until today, and now it is oppressively warm with indications of another rain. Between this place and Lovettsville there was pretty smart hail, but no particular damage was done.

Our court was a small one, but has adjourned over to Saturday morning, to try an unlawful entry and detainee case.

There were forty four instruments admitted to record—6 of them attachments, 2 deeds of release, and 36 deeds of bargain and sale.

It seems to be the general impression that there will be a large vote for the sheriffalty, and the two candidates for the constabulary of this district will bring the vote out here. Both the candidates staid at home during the war; at any rate were not in the army of either party, and are middle aged men. It is not a very desirable position at this time, though probably better than it was last year.

Some of the merchants are reducing their stocks by selling at auction; I presume the business has been over-done, and mayhap some of the less formerly established in the county will have to shorten sails. I don't think the people have the money to buy the goods, even if they feel the want of them.

LESSBURG, VA., May 17, 1866.—The detachment of regulars, under a Sergeant, which has been stationed here for sometime past has gone; while here they behaved exceedingly well.

I have understood that Dr. Smith, of the Freedmen's Bureau, has never considered their presence as necessary to protect him. Persons who have transacted business with him say, that he seems to be a respectable man, and disposed to do justice to the white man, as well as the negro. He is a vast improvement over his clerical predecessor, who always looked as if the milk of human kindness in his bosom had turned sour, and I believe it had. On the contrary his successor is a pleasant looking man, and has been near enough to minnie bullets to have a cork leg.

Rainy and cold weather to day.
Mrs. Caldwell, widow of the Rev. David Caldwell, has taken the old Eagle Hotel and, when it is put in order, will be able to accommodate, pleasantly, a good many boarders.

ALTIQVIS.

The Washington Chronicle contains the following:

"It has been reported to Gen. Howard officially from Virginia that Generals Fullerton and Steedman would scarcely listen to a Union man or a negro unless he was dissatisfied with the Freedmen's Bureau; that they carefully took down in short hand every rebel complaint; but neglected to notice any thing of a favorable character; that their whole inspection has been unfair and one-sided, which will be abundantly shown as soon as the facts shall be made public."

Now, everybody in Lynchburg knows this to be utterly false. Fullerton and Steedman, while in this city, listened as well to negroes as to white men, and carefully attended to the statements of both sides. They have no doubt done the same thing wherever they have gone.—Lynchburg Republican.

The Faculty of the University of Virginia will proceed on the 30th of June next to make appointments of State students for vacant districts. Among the vacancies to be filled, will be the districts of 13. Spotsylvania, Stafford, Orange and Prince William.

14. Alexandria and Fairfax.
15. Frederick, Clarke and Warren.
16. Loudoun.
17. Rappahannock, Fauquier, Madison and Culpeper.

Wesley Starr, of Baltimore, was recently "gathered to his fathers," after a pilgrimage of four score years on earth. His life was a model of purity. He had never sworn an oath, and his daily walks were illustrated by the beauties and graces of Christ's religion. His grave was adorned and perfumed by the rich and fragrant odors of the Spring flowers, scattered over his lonely resting place by the hands of one hundred guileless little girls, as a fitting offering to the memory of the spotless character of the good old man!

DIED.
In Bladensburg, Maryland, on the morning of 19th inst. after a painful illness, ROBERT A. LYLE, formerly of this city, in the 67th year of his age.

At the Baltimore Infirmary, on the 14th inst. GARAH HARDING, of Loudoun county, Va., and late of the Confederate army. Although a stranger among us, he had many sympathizing friends, whose unremitting attention to his every want, rendered his last days peaceful and happy. His remains were interred on the 15th instant, in Baltimore Cemetery with Masonic honors.—Balt. Sun.
